CAPETOWN, April 23 .- A telegram received CAPETOWN, APRIL 28.—A telegram received here from Pretoria, Capital of the Transvaal, or South African Republic, on April 19 announced that a Boer "trek" or expedition, with the consent of Portugal, was upon the point of leaving the Transvaal with the object of establishing a Republic in either Mashonaland or Manicaland, territories in the process of the contract of the process of the contract o ection with which the British and Portuguese authorities are now engaged in several disputes. This project, the telegram added, if carried out, would affect Manica territory, claimed by England and Portugal. Since that time the Lisbon Government has received the intimation through the public press and through official channels that the Portuthrough omeiai channels that the Portu-guese Government was apparently courting the visit of a British fleet to Lisbon. Lord Salisbury is understood to have instructed Sir George Glynn Petre, the British Ambassa-dor at Lisbon, to call the attention of the Lisbon Government of the Lisbon Government to the reported Boer ex-pedition, to the detention of the Sir John Willoughby expedition and to other similar matters which have caused the relations beeen Great Britain and Portugal to assume

Lord salisbury was not contented with en-tering a protest against the reported expedi-tion of the Boers. The British Premier, through the Foreign Office, promptly com-municated with Sir Henry Brougham Loch, the Governor, British High Commissioner and Commander in Chief of Cape Colony, with the result that the latter with equal mptness placed himself in communica promptness placed nimself in communica-tion with the President of the Transval, Paul Kruger. The substance of the British Governor's communication to the President of the Boers was that the projected Boer "trek" into Mashonaland with the view of establishing a new republic would be treated of hostility to Her Majesty, the

Mr. Gladstone does not even pretend to hold out any prospect of a settlement of the question except by occupying the time of Parliament, if he gets a majority, with a fruitless discussion of absurd and impossible schemes of home rule. While he has been voting on abstract resolutions about self-government, rural parishes and registration, the Government has done more to advance the principle of local self-government in every part of the kingdom, to dighten the cost of the education of the working classes, to strengthen the defenses of the Empire and to deal with social questions, than an administration pledged to home rule would be likely to do in a generation. The Government, though not following Mr. Gladstone's example in confining its attention to Ireland, has effected and is effecting more for the material welfare of the country than any of its predecessors.

JENNY LIND.

LONDON. April 28.—The memoirs of Jenny Lind will be published to-day. They are edited by Canon Nollard and Rockstro, from letters, documents and diaries belonging to her husband. The work comprises two intensely interesting volumes, which give her history up to the time of her marriage. The first chapter explains that the public is entitled to know only the artistic career of the lady, and not her domestic or private life. It appears that quite early in life she had a strong vein of antipathy to a dramatic career.

pears that quite early in life she had a strong vein of antipathy to a dramatic career. Writing to her father in 1842, she expressed the desire that God would save her from being obliged to sing on the stage. During her whole life there was a gradual increase of religious feeling, which doubtless induced her early retirement from the stage, although not through puritanical motives. The work includes accounts of the singer written by the Queen, and Mme. Schuman gives the cadennas which she employed and her correspondence with Mendelssohn. THE HURLBURT CASE.

Nearly all of the daily papers comment upon the verdict in the Hurlburt case, the general concensus of opinion being that the Public Prosecutor should take hold of the rubic Prosecutor should take hold of the case owing to the very noticeable differences in the sworn testimony given at the trial. Mr. Huriburt, it is said, is going to America to find Murray, who, he alleges, forged his name to letters to Miss Evelyn, and when he name to letters to Miss Evelyn, and when he finds him will return and ask that the case be reopened that he may vindicate his statements. Miss Evelyn claims that she will also ask for a reopening of the cases.

Sir Richard Webster, the Attorney-General, said in the House of Commons to-day that the Government had under consideration the question of prosecution on the charge of per-jury certain parties who had given evidence in the case of Giadys Evelyn against Wm. Henry Huriburt for breach of promise.

THE EARLDON OF BERKELEY.

The Committee on Privileges in the House of Lords to-day commenced an investigation into the celebrated and romantic Berkeley case. In this case, Lord Fitz-Harding opposes the claim of Randall Mowbray Thomas Berkeley, commonly called Viscount Dursley, to the Earldom of Berkeley. The claim depends on whether the fifth Earl of Berkeley married Mary Cole before the birth of her eldest son. At the time of that interesting event, Mary Cole was living as the mistress of the fifth Earl, though it is declared now that she was married to the Earl, the marriage being kept secret. MEMOIRS OF THE SONGSTRESS PUBLISHED IN ABOTHER STRANGE "SHILOH SECRET" THAT MIGHT EXPLAIN IT.

> Hy Morris of Company C., Same Regiment Missing Since the Day of Shiloh-Was He Buried Instead of Newbyf-Old Soldiers Investigating-A Pathetic Return

Two company-report entries, both dating from the battle of Shiloh, April 6, 1862, appear almost side by side on the regin of the Union armies as kept in the War De-partment and Pension Bureau archives at Washington, D. C. The first reads probably as follows:

Wm. Newby, private soldier of Company D, Fortieth Illinois Volunteers, killed in action on the field of Shiloh April 6, 1862. Buried in the trenches on the night of April 8, 1862. Description: Height, light blue or gray; ag. 34.

The second official report reads substantielly as follows: tially as follows: "Hy Morris, private soldier of Company C. Fortieth Illinois Volunteers, missing since the battle of Shi-loh, April 6, 1862. Description: Height, about 6 teet; weight, 165 pounds; hair and eyes dark; age,

TWO MISTERIES OF SHILOH. These two entries have stood unchall for thirty years. Wm. Newby of Company D has been accounted for as dead, and the mystery of the disappearance of Hy Morris of Company C has never been cleared away during all those years. But within the past few weeks Wm. Newby has come back to life again beyond any shadow of doubt, according to the testimony of those who knew the supposably dead soldier in that period of his life before and during period of his life before and during the war. The strange story of his reappearance among the living, as told by the Orderly-Sergeant of Co. D., who buried him in the Shiloh trenches, was published in yesterday's afternoon Post-Dispatch. It made a narrative of romantic and mysterious interest such as is seldom encountered in real life, but it also raised a doubt as to the actual happening in that picturesque scene of the burial of Wm. Wm. Newby on the field of Shilob, which will not be allowed to rest until every effort to unravel the mystery has been made, and the "secret of the Shiloh trench" explored to its uttermost.

That a man with a ghastly bullet hole through his head could be buried, the earth thrown over his body several feet deep, probably to be tramped down immediately afterwards by the march of a regiment or an army corps; that he could subsequently escape from such a grave to reappear among his kindred thirty years later, to be positively identified by the officer and soldiers who buried him, is To this distinct declaration President Kruger has just replied. He says that he has dampened the projected "trek" and that in addition, he has sent messages to the prominent Boers who are suspected of having been helders of the movement, within press upon them the necessity of not taking any action which might lead to complications between the Government of the Transval and the Covernment of the Tr who stood over it and recognized it as that of a comrade whom they had seen fall and die in the very spot where the body was afterwards found. But with Wm. Newby alive, thirty years after that burial in the trenches at Shiloh, there is a mystery brought up for solution which can only be accounted for by the belief that Wm. Newby was not the man we buried."

HIS MEMORY WILL RETURN.

There are strong hopes entertained that in time his memory will return to the old soldier completely, that the strange blank now in his life will be filled, and that some day Wm.

Nearly all of the Republicans into line in favor of the preservation of the ballots from three to six months, and nearly all of the gentlemen on the Democratic side advocated the immediate destruction of the ballots, and on this particular point the two parties seem to have "locked horns." The form of ballot has been adopted. Circles are to be printed in front of the party name at the head of the ticket. A checkmark in this circle, with no other mark or the ticket, indicates that the voter intends to vote the entire ticket straight. The Democrats contend that if the ballots are kept, they must be in the custody of some one, and in case of a contest there is a temptation to any prejudiced or unscrupu lot and thereby thwart the intent of the The Republicans argue that all ballots should be preserved as original evidence of the voter as expressed by the ballot. They further contend that in case of contest it is necessary to keep the ballots so that it can be ascertained exactly how the voter voted, ascertained exactly how the voter voted, by calling him to identify his own ballot. As a necessity for this plan they cite the noted Brand-Lehman case in the celebrated Morrison-Logan struggle in 1885. The matter assumed a political phase, after the committee report was made, and the Republicans shook the red flag. Immediately the Democrats accepted the situation, and yesterday and last night the wires were used freely, and the result is that every one of the seventy-seven members are in their seats to-day. Representative Ensloe of Macoupin County was brought from a sick bed in a hospital in St. Louis at the risk of his life. Against Liddel Was Returned-The Part a Woman Played-History of the Bandits and Their Operations in Mis-

FRICHMOND, Mo., April 23 .- Dick Liddel, once a member of the famous Jesse James, gang, now a wealthy horse-owner on Eastern tracks, was arrested and lodged in jail here yesterday. He is charged with the murder of Wood Hite, a cousin of Jesse James. The crime was committed in 1882, and was the outgrowth of a feud existing among several

The killing of Wood Hite, who, with his brother, Clarence Hite, were active members of the James gang, occurred in Ray County, at the home of the Ford family. All of the gang, including the two James boys, Liddel, the two Ford boys and the rest, were present. Liddel was at the time courting Mattle Ford, a sister of the Bob who afterwards assassinated Jesse James. It was just after the gang had made a rich haul, and they had congregated at the Ford house for the purpose of dividing the plunder. It is suspected that the latter was the cause of Hite losing his life, but it was ver known definitely. No two stories of the by an old pal."

MATTIE COLLINS' STATEMENT. The statement of Mattie Collins, afterwards Liddel's wife, which was made public a short time after the assassination of Jesse James, caused the indictment against Liddel in Ray County. Mrs. Liddel said at that time that Liddel came home in Kansas City right after Liddel came home in Kansas City right after the murder of Hite and told her that Wood was shot by him in a row over the spoils of a recent raid, although the whole gang had participated in the row, which was general. Liddel himself was shot in the leg.

The remains of Hite were thrown in an old unused well on the Ford farm, where they were afterwards discovered. Another statement made it appear that Hite was jealous of Liddel's extentions to Mattle Ford and was shot in a row over the matter. The Ford boys were also at one time accused of doing the job and after Gov. Crittenden pardoned them for the assassination of Jesse James the Ray County officials had them arrested charged wih being implicated in the Hite murden.

THE INDICTMENT.

The matter was finally hushed up until the Grand-jury returned an indictment against Liddel in 1884. It is not expected that they can convict Liddel on what testimony can be brought against him now, as most of the witnesses to the crime are dead. The Ford boys who are out West somewhere, could undoubtedly tell the truth concerning the matter, but it is hardly likely they will open their mouths now. The arrest of Liddel yesterday is thought to be a ruse to get him out their mouths now. The arrest of Liddel yes-terday is thought to be a ruse to get him out of Ray County, as his presence is not con-genial to the residents of that place, only serving to revive old and unpleasant memories of the past.

THE ROBBER BAND.

HISTORY OF THE BANDITS-THEIR OPERATIONS

The James gang began operations during the war. Jesse and Frank Joined Quantrell's band while they were yet boys. From '61 to '66 they engaged in dozens of bloody fights, prominent among which was the massacre at Centralia, Mo., on Sept. 17, 1861. On that occasion the James boys, with Bill Anderson, murdered thirty-two invalid Union soldiers. murdered thirty-two invalid Union soldiers. During the winter of 1865 Frank and Jesse parted for a time, Jesse going to Texas with George Shepard and Frank remaining with Quantrell and his band, and ranged through Kentucky on almost daily raids. It may be an accident that Frank James escaped sharing the fate of the Quantrell band when most of them were killed in the Kentucky fight, and in which Quantrell was killed. Toward the end of the war the James boys cast aside their guerilla characters for awhile and were but very soldom heard of. When they did reappear it was in the character of train-robbers and highwaymen. Their first big job was at Russelville, Ky., where they robbed a bank of $14,000. Geo. Shepard was given three years in the peninurdered thirty-two invalid Union soldiers at Gallatin, when Cashier Sheets was mur-dered and the vaults opened.

The next robbery was at Columbus, Ky., two years later, when the gang only secured $200. In 1873 they robbed the ticket office of the Kansas City Fair Grounds in broad daythe Kansas City Fair Grounds in broad daylight, getting $10,000. Six weeks later the

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

ST. LOUIS CLERGY'S ANSWER TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S OVERTURES.

Dr. Gause of Carondelet Attacks the Roman Catholic Schools—Management of Presbyterian Seminaries Criticised.

At 9 o'clock this morning the St. Louis Presbytery was called to order by Rev. W. J. of W. F. Irwin, an applicant for licentiate to the ministery, was the first thing taken up. After the examination, which was rather lengthy, the candidate was escorted from the room and Rev. George E. Martin made some very pointed remarks concerning the management of the Presbyterian theological seminaries. He said that too much attention was paid to the spiritual unfolding of the Greek and Hebrew texts, igwhich the speaker contended was just as important as the spiritual parts thereof. "Our schools of theology, 'said Dr. Martin, 'are not doing the work which they should. The examination of this candidate shows very conclusively that the technical points of the Hebrew and Greek language are neglected to a degree which should not be tolerated. This young man (Irwin) comes from the McCormick Theological Seminary of Chicago, and yet he acknowledges that little attention was paid to technical matters in teaching these languages. It is a matter that

AN IMPORTANT REPORT.

Rev. S. J. Niccolls, as chairman of the committee on overtures from the General Assembly in relation to the confession of faith and Church government, made a report which answers in the negative the questions which have come from the General Assembly at its session about a year ago. Rev. Dr. Palmer moved the adoption of the report and that it be sent to the coming Detroit session of the General Assembly, as the answer of the St. Louis Presbytery to the overtures made.

an impure Christianity and a perverted gospel."

The report went on to particularize to some extent, comparing the alleged attacks of the Catholics on the schools of the country to that of Hindooisn on those of India, saying that the schools of both countries by the Presbyterian Church.

Upon the concluding of the reading of this report the members of the presbytery were again invited to participate in a luncheon prepared by the laddes of Lafayette Park

Two or three gentlemen spoke mildly in op-position to the report, but when a vote was called the adoption was unanimous, such fact being ordered transmitted to the General Assembly through the clerk of the Presby. THE REPORT AS ADOPTED.

of the Presbyteries.
'4.We decidedly object to the taking out of section 6, Chapter 12, of form of government, which section limits the powers of the assembly and secures the rights of the Presbyteries.

"In view of the above we recommend that he overture be answered in the negative. It was the generally expressed opinion that the report of the committee thoroughly con-veyed the sentiment of the members of the Presbytery upon a question of such momen-tous interest. It will be seen that the overtous interest. It will be seen that the over-tures of the General Assembly are apparently taking these facts into consideration, appar-ently doomed to defeat. The action in rela-tion to the establishment of the Order of Deaconesses and this are the most important which have been acted upon during the ses-sion of the Prochetors. sion of the Presbytery.

ATTACK CATHOLICS.

Rev. Joseph H. Gause of Carondelet, Chairman of the Committee on Schools and Colleges, made a report, in which he charges that the Catholic Church is scheming to get from the McCormick Theological Seminary of Chicago, and yet he acknowledges that little attention was paid to technical matters in teaching these languages. It is a matter that is attracting much merited attention, and we, as a Presbytery, should ask that persons be employed who have a clear and exact technical knowledge of the Greek and Hebrew languages."

This severe criticism on the management of the theological colleges was not answered by anyone. The vote over, the candidate was brought back into the room and took the obligation and thereby became authorized to preach the gospel according to the creed of instruction on the basis of, to say the least an impure Christianity and a perverted gospel."

The report went on to particularize to saying that the schools of both countries should be preserved as far as po, sible in both countries by the Presbyterian Church.

Upon the concluding of the reading of this report the members of the presbytery were again invited to participate in a luncheon prepared by the ladies of Lafayette Park Church. Rev. Dr. Palmer remarked that the "uncrowned deaconesses" were not yet weary of the honor which the St. Louis Presbytery was willing to bestow upon them, as to-day's luncheon demonstrated.

be sent to the coming Detroit session of the General Assembly, as the answer of the St. Louis Presbytery to the overtures made.

Dr. Niccolis then explained the provisions of the overtures providing that one-third of the Presbyterians could force the General Assembly to consider any question which they may force upon it.

"If this be allowed," said Dr. Niccolis, "the first thing we know they will be giving our churches bishops or something of that kind. In the overtures from the General Assembly the vital rules governing the churches are left to a majority of the commissioners to the General Assembly, while the less vital questions of confessions of faith in some instances are not touched on. This is where the General Assembly made a mistake. They leave vital matters to a majority vote and leave unimportant ones as they were before. It is drifting, I say, toward dangerous waters, and the tendency should be checked before it becomes more powerful than the church government itself. For these reasons and because I believe that the adoption of the overtures would not be to the advantage of the Presbyterian churches I hope the report that I have just read will be adopted."

Two or three gentlemen spoke mildly in opposition to the report, but when a vote was called the adoption was unanimous, such fact being ordered transmitted to the General Assembly through the clerk of the Presbytery reconvened deaconesses" were not yet "uncrowned deaconesses" uncrowned deaconesses" uncorner the fact hat the "uncrowned dea

Mr. Frederick L. Billon Still Well and Hearty as He Nears the Century Mark. Mr. Frederick L. Billon Still Well and Hearty as He Nears the Century Mark.

Mr. Frederick L. Billon, said to be the oldest resident of this city, celebrates his soth birthday to-day, and his seventy-second year as a citizen of St. Louis. With the exception of slight neuralgic pains in his lower limbs which are not severe enough to confine him to his bed, Mr. Billon is as hale and strong as his numerous friends remember him to be for the past thirty years. He was born in Philadelphia, April 22, 1801, and came to this city with his father in 1818. It was many years before railroads, telegraph electric lines or even steamboats were invented and built and the trip from Philadelphia to St. Louis was made in two months, as a stage coach line running from Philadelphia to Pittsburg was the only means of conveyance. From Pittsburgh to St. Louis the travellers made their way by river or overland the best way they could.

Mr. Billon entered in business with his father and became a citizen of prominence almost before he attained his majority. He cast his first vote for the adoption of a city charter in 1822, and has voted at every election, State and presidential, up to the present day. In 1827 he was elected an Alderman from one of the three wards in the city at that time and was reelected the following year. In 1830 he married Miss E. L. Generelly. She died in 1863 and 1852 under Mayor Luther M. Kennett, and in 1853 was made Auditor of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. Later he became Secretary and Treasurer of the company and resigned in 1868 after eleven years service. Since then and in issuers and a Auditor of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. Later he became Secretary and Treasurer of the company and resigned in 1868 after eleven years service. Since then he has not been engaged in business, but has devoted his time to literary work and the history of this city and State, and of the country bordering on the Mississippi River. Mr. Billon was blessed with the gift of memory and having inherited a studious nature, he has through a careful life of 30 years amassed a wonderful fund of information. He describes in detail the inauguration of Thomas Jefferson, President of the United States, in Philadelphia, which took place in 1803 when he was but 4 years of age. He can recall incidents and events which occurred in this city for almost a century, and describe them with the greatest accuracy and minuteness. The historians of St. Louis, the State and of the Western United States are indebted to Mr. Billon for a large part of the information and facts contained in their works, and he is not infrequently called into court to testify as to facts contained in their works, and he is not infrequently called into court to testify as to the ownership of a piece of property in this city fifty years ago or more, or give other information not to be found on record.

As has been the case for the past few days Elizabeth has absorbed nearly all of the attention of brokers. The regular semi-occasional report of bonanza developments was to-day followed by the news, so familiar to dealers in the old West Granite, that the rich vein struck had disappeared. A telegram was received from Supt. Dodge stating that no ore showed in the face of the drift, which was interpreted to signify that the vein had pinched. Believers in the property claim that this is not important, as similar experiences befel the Granite Mountain vein. The effect of the news was to send the stock rapidly downward. The market opened at $2.35 bid, and after a sale of 100 shares it fell to $2.30, at which an equal amount was transferred, 200 shares sold at $2.25, 100 at $2.07½ and 200 sold at $2.00½. sting Contest Between the Stand and Manhattan. FINDLAY, O., April 23.—An interested con-test is being waged between the standard and Manhattan Oil Cos. for the con trol of the Ohio field. The Manhattan is the most powerful independent company operat-ing in the field, and what makes the fight the more bitter is the fact that the Manhattan is composed of the same men who a year ago sold to the Standard the Lima Off a year ago sold to the Standard the Lima Oil Co. for $1,000,000, and then at once re-invested the money in new oil territory. The Standard has commenced selling Ohio oil for use as fuel at 20 cents per barrel delivered. In Titusville, Pittsburg and other Pennsylvania cities and in New York and New England 20 cents is the rate made although it had heretofore been selling at 20 to 75 cents. The price at the tanks here is 20 cents. The Manhattan and the other independent companies in the field here are beginning to feel the effects of the loss seriously.

Mrs. Woodworth left this morning. What has become of the little band of people who came with her to St. Louis from California is not known, unless they have also "gone to meet Douglass." The only self-evident fact to-day is that the "Temple" is closed and securely locked. The old Presbyterian stronghold has had some strange scenes of hypnotic trances and mesmeric mummery enacted within its walls for some months past. The "power" was domiciled there, and it had a wild swing as long as it lasted. It now looks as though the "power" had been transferred, together with Mrs. Woodworth and the subscription funds.

As a matter of fact, they conferred just that power, although, no standing committees having been appointed, it is probable that the assertion that the committee is illega constituted is well founded. In answer to my questions in regard to the alleged dismissal of the Secretary, she said: "Miss Couzins has simply missed a golden opportunity, we were prepared to take her up socially and make a great deal of her, but now—her silence was eloquent and doomed Miss Pheebe to social cetracism. This charge is so absurd that no comment is necessary. Considerable capital has been made in Chicago of the quotations from the prominent suffragists, and I would like to show them how mistaken they are in the conclusion that the suffrage principles of the Secretary cut no figure in the case. A member of this Executive Committee said to me: 'The majority of us were opposed to Miss Cousins in the first place on account of her suffrage principles, but President Palmer of the National Commission recommended her so highly that we voted for her,' and it is a matter of fact that wherever possible the members of the board who are known to be suffragist myself, my feelings were not hurt, but common courtesy should have suggested that as Isabella Beecher Hooker offered the resolution creating the Executive Committee, her name should appear on the list of its members, which it does not; the suffragists of St. Louis may be assured that their body will receive no favors at the hands of the ladies in charge of the Woman's Department of the World's Fair.

"While in Chicago I called on Mrs. Palmer and asked her the cause of the alleged dismissal of the Secretary, receiving the same answer, 'incompetency, extravagance and dishonesty,' Mrs. John A. Logan, who was present, making the remark that 'it was a great mistake electing her in the first place,' and as I had been present on the occasion when Mrs. Logan was one of the three ladies chosen to count the ballots I could cheerfully testify that the 'mistake' was one for which she was not responsible.

"I hope that I have made it plain to Miss Couzins' many St. Louis friends and the incustrial women everywhere that it is a principle that she is fighting for. When Chicago, cripnled by the great fire, sent forth bearty

When Chicago, crippled by the great fire, sent forth her cry for aid Phoebe Couzins, then a young and beautiful girl, went there and worked untiringly, and the business men of her native city, who did not hesitate to place in her hands the thousands of dollars contributed by St. Louis to the suffering and devastated city, will hardly be convinced that she has now departed from the principles of strict integrity that have marked her whole life. Even in Chicago there is a strong sentiment in her favor and the professional and business women have held a mass-meeting indorsing her and calling upon her to stand firm in her convictions of right.

"The Board of Control meets next Monday and it is likely that some action will be taken; at any rate, I have the best authority for saying that if Miss Cousins does not receive the salary of Secretary nobody else will, for some time, at least."

IN THE COILS OF A PYTHON.

Snake Charmer Nearly Choked by One CHICAGO, April 23.-Prof. Belmont of Paris, a snake charmer, was all but choked to death at the Grand Pacific Hotel last night by a python, which he had taken to his room with other reptiles in a box. The occupant of an adjoining room to the professor's was awakened by Belmont's cries for help, and with others burst into the apartment, where a horrible sight was presented. Lying on the bed, his face black from suffocation and his bed, his face black from suffocation and his eyes bulging from his head, was the snake charmer. Around his body was tightly coiled the "king of snakes." The diamond-shaped head was waving to and fro, and from the horrid mouth shot its long, black forms. head was waving to and fro, and from the horrid mouth shot its long, black, forked tongue in anger. Some cried: "Shoot him," "Kill him," and one man ran into the hall and seized the fire-ax. The smaller snakes had disappeared under the bed, where they were hissing and squirming in a heap. "Untwis' hees tail," faintly whispered the half choked professor. "I'll grab his head while you untwist his tail," shouted Clerk Newberry, and with a spring he caught the writhing serpent by the neck close to the head. It took all the clerk's strength to untwist the steel-like coils of the angry reptile, twist the steel-like coils of the angry reptile. but finally the arms of the professor were freed and he grabbed the neck of the serpent and with a deft fling threw it into the box and quickly shut the lid. The python is about seven feet long. Belmont was informed that the hotel was no museum and with his box he sought another hotel.

THE PREACHERS' TOUR.

POUCHING TESTIMONIALS FROM ES-TEEMED CONTEMPORARIES.

Indorsements by the Press-Cheap Clothing for the Tourists-Capping the Cli-max-The Suggestion of a Rural

The Republic's novel idea of sending a couple of preachers to Palestine as a means of inducing the unwilling public to buy copies of a pendage, but still the presumption is that the tour was intended chiefly for advertising opinions of the press it is getting them.

The St. Louis Grocer under the head of "Cheap Clothes for Clergymen" makes the following suggestion:

most the identical cost of the outfit itself if procured at home.

To those who propose making the trip across, we offer special discounts at our London establishment. To render ordering as easy and convenient as possible, we will forward samples and measure blanks from our New York house, and clients, by ordering of us before their departure, can have the articles ready awaiting their arrival in London.

We wonder if the New York house finds any takers of its offer? And yet it probably does, or it would not be in the business.

A St. Louis newspaper is now trying to boom its circulation by the offer of a free European trip to the most popular preacher, as determined by the votes cast. The preacher who accepts should also be sent a circular of the New York house. Then, on his return, let him deliver a sermon on the ennobling effects of a cheep trip and cheap clothes.

The Boston Herald pays its compliments to what it calls "Chromo Journalism," as follows:

lows:
Chromo journalism has reached a remarkable development in St. Louis. The St. Louis. "Republic" has been taking a vote on the two most popular preachers in #hat city, the two receiving the highest number of votes to be sent to Palestine and Exypt at the

ENGAGED TO THREE GIRLS.

A Chicago Man's Entangling Alliances in WELLSVILLE, O., April 23.-Frank Thompson eloped several days ago. Thompson was engaged to three Wellsville girls at the same time, each of them being unknown to the others. One of the young ladies, Miss Lillie May Johnson, had set the day for her mar-riage for April 10, and was all ready for the ceremony, but the gay bridegroom failed to appear. Thompson went up to Rochester and telegraphed to Miss Cameron (intended No. 2) to meet but there which she did and wedding was off and that she expected to "marry a younger man." She left on the evening train for Denver, Blackmore joining sition with the Union Pacific Co. here, his books and papers to his superior officer with a note saying he was going away.

FED FROM PUBLIC FUNDS.

The Wife and Son of the Notorious Chas. R. Hammond.

SEATTLE, Washington, April 23.—The wife and son of Charles R. Hammond of Cleveland street (London) notoriety, were yesterday made county paupers and are being fed from public funds. Six months ago Hammond was onyicted of stealing a seal-skin sacque and a cold watch and chain from a woman who was rinking with him at his wine room. He was then prospering in business as proprietor of a hotel and saloon, but misfortunes came upon him. He was convicted of grand lar-ceny and sentenced to two years in the peni-tentiary, strong outside pressure beins brought to bear against him. In his efforts to get a new trial Hammond cave, un every to get a new trial Hammond gave up everything to the lawyers, leaving an invalid wife and a 13-year-old boy destitute. They were turned out of the hotel, their furniture sold for rent, and Mrs. Hammond has been selling her jewelry and fine clothes for the past three months. Having exhausted all her recourses the three herself upon the country resources she threw herself upon the county yesterday. Hammond has been hoping for aid from wealthy English noblemen, whose guilt he has been shielding, but found only disappointment, and from wealth and affuence he went to prison and his family to poverty and misery.

JOINING THE ARMY.

Ghost-Dancing Brules Enlisting in the Cavalry Service.

OMAHA, Neb., April 23 .- The probability of a resumption of hostilities by the Sioux this spring was overthrown to-day in the estimation of army veteraas by the receipt of infor-mation by Gen. Brooke, Commander of the Department of Platte, that the Indians were rapidly enlisting in the cavalry service. Troop L, Sixth Cavalry, has been organized complete with Brule, Sloux, including the most warlike of the ghost dancers.

TAKING THE TOWN.

Mason Citt, Io., April 28.—The Indians, with a traveling medicine company, made things exceedingly lively at Sheffield last night while crazed with drink, They took their war clubs and knives and proceeded to do up the town. The authorities and citizens were unable to control them and assistance was sent from Hampton, when peace was restored. No one was seriously hurt.

Six prisoners are in the condemned cells of the New York penitentiary awaiting electro-cution. Altogether the gallows has been ught more into use in the States providing for that mode of execution during April than it has been in any one month during the past

Death by hanging is one of the oldest forms of capital punishment in existence. From old Egyptian sculptures it is known that it was practiced in that country long before the Jewish captivity. The Jews themselves frequently practiced hanging after the Egyptian captivity, but it appears to have been unknown until then, the death penalty being inflicted by stoning. The Persians regarded death by the cord as a peculiarly degrading method of execution, and in answer to the appeal of Esther on behalf of the family of Mordecal in answer to the appeal of Esther on behalf of the family of Mordecal and the Jews in general King Ahasuerus hanged his satrap Haman on a particularly lofty gallows, that all the people might see how oppressors were punished. The expression "to hang him as high as Haman" is still in common use. Among the Greeks and Romans hanging was sometimes resorted to, especially in the case of slaves. In the middle ages it was common throughout Europe, but was confined to those of low degree, men of rank dying by the sword or ax. England has always been the country in which the noose was most commonly resorted to as a means of inflicting the death penalty. The ax was reserved for high nobles, the commoners and the gentry condemned to death being executed by the cord. The English methods of inflicting this punishment were peculiarly brutal down to the end of the seventeenth century. Hanging in chains was a purely English inventions, the other heads of the seventeenth century. peculiarly brutal down to the end of the seventeenth century. Hanging in chains was a purely English inventios, the object being to prevent the friends of the malefactor from carrying off the corpse and to serve as a warning to law-breakers. For centuries the gallows, with one or more corpses hanging upon it, was seen on every English moor and at nearly every supplemented by drawing and quartering, the culprit being cut down while still alive, his heart and bowels torn out, and his disemboweled limbs boiled in tar and placed above the city gates. The number of men condemned to this death by the infamous Judge Jeffries during the Bloody Assizes foljudge Jeffries during the Bloody Assizes fol-Judge Jeffries during the Bloody Assizes following the suppression of the rebellion led by the Duke of Monmouth exceeds the recold of any other Judge. Until the opening of the present century death by hanging meant death by strangulation, as the drop is a modern invention. The nearest expression to twe suppression to the suppression of the rebellion of the rebellion of the suppression of the suppression of the rebellion of the rebell ach to it was allowing the criminal to approach to it was anowing the criminal to spring from a ladder, thus breaking the neck. Frequently the process of strangulation was hastened by the hangman silding down the rope and resting his weight upon the shoulders of the condemned man. This was the recognized method in all executions that took place on the famous Place de Greve of took place on the famous Place de Greve of Paris. The punishment inflicted for piracy in England was invariably hanging, and until the opening of the present century there were always at least a score of corpses to be seen hanging in chains on Execution Dock in London, as a grim warning what those who flew the Jolly Roger had to expect in case they were captured. The Lowland Scotch hanged the Highland veterans without mercy, Hanghman Stairs being the place of execution. their rate with a steadiness and coolness that is seldom shaken. Men of all classes have been sent out of the world by the hempen route, but the cases in which cowardice has been exhibited are very few and far between. The rule is that men meet their fate with stally indifference, sometimes with levith. stolid indifference, sometimes with levity, and very infrequently with any signs of fear. In many instances the ludicrous is mingled with the tragic in a most peculiar and striking manner. A case occured in this city that manifested this in a remarkable degree. Henry Erb was led from his cell to the galows while smoking a fine Havana cigar. On mounting the scaffold he laid it down on the railing in order to address the down on the railing in order to address the crowd. While he was speaking one of the hangman's attendants in moving about approached the cigar. Erb ceased speaking and warned him not to knock it off, apparently oblivious of the fact that in a few moments his life would come to an end. Another condemned criminal instant on being treated for a cold end. Another condemned criminal insisted on being treated for a cold that threatened to develop into pneumonia on the night before his execution. A case in New York occurred in which the condemned insisted on being conducted to the scaffold under an umbrella, as he said that the rain they was falling would be certain to bring on insisted on being conducted to the scaffold under an umbrella, as he said that the rain that was falling would be certain to bring on a bronchial complaint to which he was subject. In one of the numerous hangings at It. Smith, Ark., a condemned criminal was very anxious that the drop should be long enough to insure displacement of the vertebrae, and persuaded the Sheriff to give him a little more rope than the ordinary allowance. The result was that his head was absolutely jerked from his shoulders. The substitution of the lift for the drop was first tested in New Mexico. The Sheriff was very proud of the arrangement that he had made by which the cutting of a rope should release a weight, the effect being to jerk the criminal six feet in the air. So anxious was he to put his invention to the proof that he cut he rope a few moments before the time set for the execution. A local newspaper in describing the hanging said that when the black cap was removed an expression of surprise was perceptible in the face of the corpse. Whether this was due to the astonishment of the griminal at the smooth working of the apparatus, or to the fact that he had been apparatus, or to the writer acknowledged his inability to determine. Probably the most peculiar apology on record for a mistaken hanging occurred in Nevada in 1872. A man was lynched for horse stealing, but immediately afterwards it was discovered that it was a case of mistaken identity. A committee of ten lynchers called upon the deceased wife to offer their apologies. "Madam," said the spokesman, "we must acknowledge that this time you have the laugh on us." In 1855 two Mexicans were seized in Fresno, Cal., accused of having stolen a mule. The jury of the lynchers, after hearing the evidence, went into a room to deliberate. In half an honr into a room to deliberate. In half an hone they announced that they found the men not they announced that they found the men not gailty. To their surprise they were roughly hustled back into their room with an intimation that they must find a different verdict. This they obediently did, and on announcing it were informed that while they were deliberating the men had been hanged, as the lynchers had no time to waste. Half an hour later the owner of the mule was considerably surprised to discover his animal in a shed, where he himself had placed him during the previous evening while slightly intoxicated.

SOME FAMOUS EXECUTIONS.

NOTED MEN WHO HAVE DIED BY THE CORD NOTED MEN WHO HAVE DIED BY THE CORD-THE HARGMAN'S PARADISE.

Not a few distinguished men have died by the noose in this country. There were, two famous executions during the revolutionary war, those of Andre and Hale, both of whom were hanged as spies and met their deaths with heroic fortitude. Andre's remains re-pose in Westminster Abbey, the only instance in which a man who was hanged has been in which a man who was hanged has been accorded such an honor. Harvard University enjoys the questionable honor of having had a professor who left the world by the hempen route. Prof. Webster was executed in Boston for the murder of Dr. Parkman, and this batchest cave Gen. Pullege. an Opportunity of the professor was executed in Boston for the murder of Dr. Parkman, and Boston for the murder of Dr. Parkman, and this incident gave Gen. Rutlege an opportunity to make a cutting retort upon a rival lawyer. Butler was conducting the cross-examination of a witness with peculiar savageness, when the opposing counsel protested and asked him if he knew that he was a professor in Harvard College. "I know the Harvard professors," replied Butler, "we hanged one of them a few days ago." The execution of young Spencer, the son of the Secretary of War, excited tremendous feeling throughout the country. Spencer went to sea as a midshipman under the command of Capt. MacKenzie of the navy. When near the West Indies MacKenzie believed that he discovered a glot for the capture of the discovered a plot for the capture of the vessel and the nurder of the officers of which Spencer was the ringleader. The intention of the mutineers was to turn the vessel into a piratical craft. A courtmartial was called, spencer and two companions condemned to leath, and within three hours all were hanged from the yardarm. MacKenzie on his return to this country was tried for murder and was acquitted. The trial of those engaged in the plot to assassinate Lincoln, and of Guiteau, the murderer of Garfield, are familiar to all.

Ft. Smith, Ark., can show a larger list of hangings than any half dozen States in the Union. The denizens of the Indian Territory accused of crime are tried before the United States Court at that place and the efficiency. The extreme punishment for the gravest crimes is considered necessary in nearly every country in the world. Italy is one of always decorated with the corpses of the scottish border foragers, hanged by the warden of the Marshes. The drop is now used exclusively in all countries except the United States, but in some of the States of this country the culprit is jerked heavenward instead of dropped earthward, death being inflicted by liberating a heavy weight stached to the rope, the other end murderers and others guilty of terrible crimes. It was abolished there by an im-perial decree in 1876 and 11fe imprisonment substituted. The following table shows the modes of capital punishment adopted in the various countries and also indicates when of which forms the noose that encircles the neck of the criminal. The New York law, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1889, prescribes that the death penalty shall be inflicted by electricity. In every other State where the death penalty is inflicted the gallows is used for executions, excepting in military executions, where the condemned prisoners are shot. The same mode has prevailed in the Territory of Utah for years.

The Femme-Chat or Cat-Woman Hardly had Dr. Koch's wonderful discovery of his consumption cure ceased to startle the somber and slow going cities of Europe ery of his consumption cure ceased to startle the somber and slow going cities of Europe before Dr. Charcot, "the Frenchman most most habituated to the marvelous," draws the attention of the world to a "femme-chat" or "cat-woman," whom he has discovered, Dr. Charcot's femme-chat is an inmate of the Hospital Salpetriere, Paris. She is a pretty child, about it years old, with blue eyes and long blonde hair falling down her back. She is modest and gentle up to a certain moment, when the visitor suddenly beholds her eyes "frightfully convulsed in their orbits," her mouth shriveled up, a horrible grimace distorting her features. Finally she drops to the floor on all fours. Then she scampers about the room, over and under chairs and tables, seeking everywhere an outlet of escape, and if anybody attempts to capture her she spits with the unmistakable "pfft" of an enraged cat. Then she humps her back and gives vent to long minulments in crescendo, and, if a bit of paper or other trifle be thrown to her she stretches forth her hand and toys with it just as a cat would. Finally, after having done the entire cat act to perfection, she faints, falls over on her back and the crisis is over; the femme-chat becomes pure femme once more. M. Charcot and his assistant, M. Raville, are giving this "cat-woman" case a thorough investigation with a view to publishing the results early the coming summer. The curious creature has been an inmate of the hospital for over two years.

him and Barnum to his house and showing him every reasonable attention. Mr. Everett promised to use his influence at the palace so that the General could be presented to the Queen. Barnum in the meantime engaged Egyptian Hall, and the announcement of the unique exhibition was followed by a rush of visitors representing the wealth and fashion of England. Mr. Everett's efforts and those of Charles Murray, master of the household, who also interested himself in securing the presentation of the General to the Queen, were successful, and one morning one of the life guards brought a note inviting Gen. Tom Thumb and his guardian, Mr. Barnum, to appear at Buckingham palace on an evening

The guards hought a note invining deir. John Thumb and his guardian, Mr. Barnum, to appear at Buckingham palace on an evening that was specified. Through Mr. Murray came instructions to let the little fellow appear before her as he would before any one else, without any drilling in court etiquette and in his own natural way. When the eventful day arrived, "determined to make the most of the occasion," says Barnum, "I placed a placard on the door of Egyptian Hall: 'Closed this evening, Gen. Tom Thumb being at Buckingham Palace by command of Her Majesty." Arriving at the palace the lord in waiting instructed Barnum how he should behave in the presence of royalty. In no event was he to speak directly to the Queen, but answer all Her Majesty's questions through him, and, when leaving, he was to "back out," keeping his eyes fixed on the sovereign.

was to "back out," keeping his eyes fixed on the sovereign.

The presentation scene was amusing in many ways. Barnum and the General were received in the great picture gallery, at one end of which were the Queen and Prince Albert, the Duchess of Kent, the Duke of Wellington and others. "The General," Mr. Barnum recounts, "walked in, looking like a wax doll gifted with the power of locomotion. Surprise and pleasure were depicted on the countenances of the royal circle. The General advanced with a firm step and, as he came within hailing distance, made a very graceful bow and exclaimed:
"GOOD EVENING LADIES AND GENTLEMEN."

came within hailing distance, made a very graceful bow and exclaimed:
"GOOD EVENING LADIES AND GENTLEMEN." A burst of laughter followed this salutation. The Queen then took him by the hand, led him about the gallery and asked him many questions, the answers to which kept the party in a strain of uninterrupted merriment." He told the Queen that he liked her picture gallery "first rate" and expressed a desire to see the Prince of Wales. The Queen told him the Prince was in bed but that he should see him on some future occasion. The General then went through his regular performance, gave his dances, songs and i recitations, and, after a chat with Prince Albert, they were permitted to withdraw. Barnum had, however, shocked the lord in waiting by his failure to observe the rule of not addressing the Queen directly, but she did not appear to care about the infraction of it and was as affable as possible. The "backing out" business was ludicrous. Barnum managed to go through the act very well, but whenever the General found he was falling behind he turned his back to the royal party and ran until he caught up with his "guardian" and the lord found he was falling behind he turned his back to the royal party and ran until he caught up with his "guardian" and the lord in waiting, when he again faced the Queen. Shouts of laughter greeted this act not down on the bill. The Queen's favorite poodle marked its displeasure of the whole proceeding by barking loudy and making an attack on the General, which he repelled with his cane, coming out of the encounter victorious.

The exit was fortunately near by at this point, and they had hardly left the gallery when an attendant on the Queen appeared, expressing the hope of her Majesty that the poodle had not hurt the General. While partaking of refreshments Barnum's head was full of business, and he expressed a desire to see the gentleman who wrote the palace news for the Court Journal. Barnum gave him an outline of what he wished to appear, and it was printed as he had written it. The reception at the palace made everybody half crazy to see Tom Thumb, and Barnum had to hire a larger Hall.

DRESSMAKING BY MODEL Plan of a Society Queen That Might Be Adopted With Profit. From the New York WORLD. reputation of being one of the best dressed operation which recommends itself for general adoption. Living much of the time in her country house and finding it inconvenien to come into town every time she was having a dress made, it occurred to her to have a duplicate figure modeled after her own. The body when completed was covered with a soft cloth suitable for pinning on lining, trimming and drapery.

It cost the lady either $8 or $10, but it paid for itself in car fare alone in a very short time. Accompanying the body was a skirt stand, the same height as the model. These two implements of trade were sent to the dressmaker, who has this to say about the arrangement: "I have absolutely no trouble with Mrs. Belmont's dresses. I rarely see her. She sends me word or illustrations about the style or sleeve, drapery or length of the basque. I buy model patterns, fit them to the body and send the dress home when it is finished." to come into town every time she was having

ON 'CHANGE. Grain and Flour.

Wheat—The bulls made strong efforts to-day to raily the market and snatch it from the bears' possion and they finally did so. All the early calesession and they finally did so. All the early calesession and they finally did so. All the early calesession and they finally did so. All the early caleses on foreign markets were discourasing, from Liverpool 1&144 for London 6d lower to wheat and 144 francs on four. The weather abroad and at home was fine, the crop conditions in this country unexceiled, the Cincinnati Price Current noting the fact the weather had not alone maintained the high standard of winter wheat, but overcome to some extent the previous delays in spring work, and all domestic markets opened very weak. On these there was free enough sellingsto force the market down say so soon after the opening. Then came reports of foreigners buying in New York and Chicago, that a large amount of wheat had been worked for export in the former market and these were backed by clearances from Atlantic ports of 56,000 pkgs flour and $85,000 bu wheat. The rally was sharp and decisive, July selling 2&cs above the bottom. From this there was a fac relapse, the bears fighting the advance, and a largely lower Paris cable and Liverpool 1&16234 down added them in breaking the market, but it got away from the bruins late, not-withstanding the lower cables, and the close was strong, with July lage and Aug. 1&c above yesterday.

THE POLICE DON'T LIKE IT.

The Governor's Veto of the Recreat

There is a feeling of intense disgust among the police to-day over the Governor's veto o There is a feeling of intense disgust among the police to-day over the Governor's veto of the sixteen-day recreation bill. Yesterday afternoon the Governor took up the police pension and the recreation bills, and after signing the former, disapproved of the other. The Police Department, with the exception of the Board, Chief and Captains, wanted the recreation bill to become a law and accordingly are greatly disappointed over Gov. Francis' action. They attribute the veto to the opposition of the Police Board, which strongly objected to any change in the present recreation arrangements. While it opposed this measure, the board strongly supported the pension bill asked by the Police Relief Association. The vetoed bill was introduced by Representative Julian of Kansas City and applied to the Police Department of that place, as wells as St. Louis. It originally made it mandatory on the police boards to give the men two recreation days in each calendar month. It was amended, however, to sixteen days in each year and passed in this shape. It has been in the Governor's hands ever since, and despite the hard work done in its behalf was vetoed. It was strongly supported while it was in the Assembly by the St. Louis and Kansas City members.

A number of the police claim that the relief fund gains little by the enactment of the pension law. To carry out its provisions the board will have to get additional appropriations from the Municipal Assembly. Members of the force say that there is sure to be a wrangle when additional funds are asked.

ations from the Municipal Assembly. Members of the force say that there is sure to be a wrangle when additional funds are asked for police purposes and that the objects of the new law may be defeated.

The police are now allowed eight days off in each year, and must take them in a lump. Under the old system they had a day in each month, but a change was deemed necessary and ordered by the board about a year ago. The board argues that the efficiency of the force will be impaired, if there is any increase in the number of recreation days, owing to the fact that there are not enough men now to properly cover the city. The commissioners eventually hope to get enough money from the Assemhope to get enough money from the Assembly to increase the force so that the eight hour system may be adopted. When this is done a reserve force will be kept at all the

Gen. Stevenson in his message to the As sembly states the case as follows:

The amendment as recommended, proposes to create a sinking fund that will produce an immediate effect and extinguish the debt wishin a reasonable time without increasing the present rate of taxation. It is proposed to annually appropriate a sum not less than $1,200,000, to be used exclusively for the payment of the interest on the existing debt and the reduction of the principal. That portion of each annual appropriation not required for the payment of the interest coupons maturing during the respective year, is to constitute the sinking fund out of which to redeem or purchase the bonds of the city.

The means necessary to carry into effect the proposed amendment can be provided on the present basis of assessment and rate of taxation. A Community of Not More Than 8,000 Persons Which Has About Half as Many Lawyers as St. Louis-Election the Only Preventive of Ennui-Riches

The "city" of Guthrie, in Oklahoma, is becoming one of the most unique commu-nities in America. The phases of life which y be observed there are peculiarly erican, and the existence of that strange Atle town, which is always spoken of by the sidents as the city of Guthrie, is a commerwhich I don't know, and some of them at least, if not all, have independent municipal governments. I attended the meeting and was very much interested in it. All the can-didates spoke, and by the way, one of them was Mr. Jamison, who was Adjutant-General of Missouri under Gov. Marmaduke, and he was elected next day to some office, I don't know what. "The people are just like those in other frontier towns. They are seedy looking, but they are smart. You will see a rough looking customer coming down the street and he may look as if he had been a cowboy all his life, but if you stop to talk with him you will probably find that he graduated at Yale or Harvard. They are enterprising, too. Why, there is a stone building, a store, going up there and it is already up to the second story. They have no money to work on, except that which was brought there and left there by the 20,000 people who came in at first. They have not produced a thing and of course they can do no business. The only business that is done there, besides litigation, is the supplying of the necness. The only business that is done there, besides litigation, is the supplying of the necessaries of life. But when they see a chance to make money they jump at it. In some way the rumor started that I might buy a lot, and before you could turn around there were at least fitteen men around me who wanted to show me lots. Presently a rig was driven up to the door and behind two broncos I was driven out to look at the city. Capitol Hill, where the state-house is to be erected, is the highest point about there, and on the summit is a fing staff and an elevated platform from which you can view the city. The hot winds from Texas are the cause of the crop failures, and there is where Guthrie's danger lies. They are waiting for the hext crop. They say if this one is a good one Guthrie will be all right, but if it falls Goldsmith's, 'Deserted Village' will not be a comparison to it. They tell me there that sometimes corn will be higher than your head and green and rich; then one of these hot winds will come and in three days it is yellow and shriveled. You couldn't get a bushel off of an acre. It is literally burned up. If one of these winds catches the next crop, good-bye Guthrie.

RICHES OF THE OSAGE INDIANS.

"I learned something there about the Osage Indians that surprised me. They are the richest people on earth. Their prosecuting attorney, who is a half-breed, told me that they had $5,000,000 in the United States Treasury on which they were drawing interest, besides their land. They make a great deal of money out of their land by leasing it to cattlemen and their reservation itself is exceedingly valuable. He estimated that they were worth $12,000 per capita and I don't think any other people can make such a showing."

WOULD NOT TREAT HIM.

Why Frank Goebel Brutally Assaulted Herman Rooskin. against Frank Goebel. The case is an aggravated one. It appears that on the aftermoon of the 5th uit., Herman H. Rooskin was in the saloon at 29i Menard street. The wife of the proprietor presented him with a rose, and he, with true piebeian courtesy, "set up" the beer. Goebel was in the place and stepped up to the bar to drink on Rooskin's money. To this Booskin objected and after a few words left the place. As he reached the street Goebel approached from behind and struck him a fearful blow on the back of the head with a rock. Booskin was in the City Hospital four days with a fractured skull. Since that time he has been unable to work on account of the severe pains in his head. Goebel was not found until yesterday when Officer Veith of the Second District arrested him at his home on Seventh street, hetweef Ann avenue and Shenandoch street, however.

After the sale these people are ready to pay an advance on auction prices, and thus many buyers at an auction make handsome profits at once, without investing more than simply the earnest money paid at the time of the auction. When you make your own price you can't help getting a bargain. It only requires $30 cash SATURDAY to secure a lot, and only a total cash payment of one-fifth the price of the lot when papers are ready. Dimes planted in Clemens Place lots Saturday will quickly grow to dollars.

THE CONTRACT APPROVED.

F. Gornell Jewett, Esq.:

Death Sir—Whereas Robert Garrett, for himself and associates signed an agreement on Jan. 21, 1867, with you, for yourself and associates, regarding the statistisment of ocean cable communication between Lurge and America in connection with land wires of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and other lines; Ltd., whereas, since the signing thereof a bill has passed Contress confining the said associates of heavily contract made by Robert Garrett to courselves, therefore be it have a contract made by Robert Garrett to differ the said act or acts. We have the leaver to inclose a duplicate of a letter from J. W. Barrett, President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. showing the preliminary land working arrangements between a proposed Maryland company, to be formed under the bill of Congress referred to, and Reproperate Co. in accordance with agreement and his carried out every preliminary stipulation. On the contrary, it states that the defendants have failed to comply with every important provision; that although the Maryland company (the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph Co.) was incorporated for the purpose also that it did amadgamate and sell out its property to the Westera Union of the States, has the cable, it never did so, but used its rights and properties exclusively for its own purpose; also that it did amadgamate and sell out its property to the Westera Union Telegraph Co. for $5,000,000. In conclusion the complaint states: The plaintiff would derive and gain large sums of money and profits, to-wit, £20,000, or about $100,000, and one-fourth of the founders' shares of said proposed cable company and otherwise, which would be of the value of £600,000, or about $3,000,000, upon carrying out and performing the agreement on his part and would suffer corresponding loss if he failed to carry it out and perform the conditions thereof, AFTER $3,000,000. Their satchel contained only toilet articles and four sealed and stamped envelopes, two the latter, is extremely interesting in the bearing it has upon the cable project, the failure in the construction of which, after contracts were regularly signed, furnishes the basis for a $3,000,000 suit. As told in the complaint formulated it is as follows:

How Many Handle It in Transit-Each Man's Special Work-A Crimson Letter

Traced-The Number of Hours Between Posting and Delivery. On Thursday last, at 7:28 p. m., a large, crimson letter was posted at the general from the room, which was examined through the transom.

The bed had been moved into the middle of the room, and the guests were lying on the bed as if asieep.

They were dead. Two rubber tubes had been fastened to the burners in the chandeller, a pair of dainty garters of yellow silk being used to make them fast. The other ends of the tubes lay on the pillow, close to the mouths of the young people, and the gas was turned on full head.

The round white right arm of the woman of gas-lights, its myriad of pigeon holes and were dropped into the box almost simultane-ously, and with a few quick movements laid them all with their stamped side uppermon and put them on a table at his left. That facer-up was the first of all persons who were to touch the letter.

At 7:31 precisely it was taken by the stamper (No. 2). In ordinary times the stampers have to take their own letters themselves from the facer-up's table, but on busy days, Oxfords, 75c; 1.000 pairs splendid Kid Opera

They take about forty letters from the lot lying to their left, place them on the table before them, and by quick, successive movements push them forward one by one while the right hand cancels the stamps. I timed a stamper and saw him stamp lot letters a minute, but he told me that his record was 151. Stamping by machinery has been tried often, but owing to the varying size and thickness of letters, the different ways of affixing stamps, etc., the attempts to invent a substitute for manual labor have so far failed.

attempts to invent a substitute for manual labor have so far failed.

THE STAMPER'S WORK.

Now and then the stamper would put leters in a box by his side. He either suspected them of bearing insufficient postage or they had no stamps at all. These letters were taken care of by the junpaid-letter clerk, who enters the addresses in a book and puts brown stamps on the envelopes, indicating that the receiver of the letter has to pay exactly 100 per cent above the deficiency in postage.

It was 1:27 when the stamper put the crimson envelope into a slot and it glided to a man (No. 3) whose duty it is to feed the separators, sorters thus named in order to distinguish them from the sorters of incoming mails. There are about seventy of these separators and each of them is placed behind a case containing nine rows of eleven pigeonholes each. There are separators for the city, for domestic mails and for letters going abroad. The crimson letter, together with many others, was carried to a domestic separator. As the public sorts the letters to some extent by dropping them into different boxes they are roughly divided into three classes before the facer-up gets them, and accordingly they are brought to corresponding separators, who put each letter into one of the 7,326 pigeon-holes.

The sorter (No. 4) who got the crimson letter put it into a pigeon-hole marked "750 Chicago (D.) Ill.," which means: Mail numters a minute.

The bundle containing the crimson letter was taken from the sorter's table by a man (No 5) from the pouching department, who carried it to the pouching case, where a clerk (No. 6) threw it into one of the 30 pen pouches surrounding the table on three sides. The pouch bore the mark "U. S., No. 3:" the figure indicating to which of the five sizes of pouches it belonged. The bag happened to be a new one.

pouch bore the mark "U. S., No. 3:" the figure indicating to which of the five sizes of pouches it belonged. The bag happened to be a new one.

It soon was locked by a porter (No. 7), who labelied it (again "750 Chicago (D), Ill.") and put it on a small truck. When the truck was filled with pouches it was taken by an assistant (No. 8) from the transportation department, who brought it to the transportation clerk (No. 9), and the latter checked all bags. This was at 7.46. As soon as the pouches were checked another porter (No. 10) put them on a little mountain of pouches, where the pouch holding the crimson envelope remained until 7:54, when a sturdy porter (No. 11) carried it to the mail wagon, together with about a hundred other pouches. A second man (No. 12) neatly arranged the pouches inside, and when full the wagon was locked and the key handed to the driver (No. 13), who at one minute past 8 laid the whip over his horse and drove off to the Grand Central Station. At 8:42 his vehicle stood still before one of the cars of the 9 o'clock mail train; the wagon was unlocked and bag after bag was taken out of it by a porter (No. 14), who handed them to the first of a row of six men. These six men passed the pouches on to each other after their destination was read from the label at the top, and when the new bag came it was passed on to the sixth man (No. 15-20), who threw it into the first car. There Transfer Clerk Ehern placed it in a compartment of the mail car "Daniel Manning" at 8:56 p. m. He was the twenty-first person who had taken some part in forwarding the crimson letter.

The 9 p. m. mail train consists of six large cars hired from the railroad companies by the Government, and is exclusively devoted to the mail service. It contains separate cars for papers and letters, and one of the cars serves as a sorting office, where letters for small places are sorted en route and dropped at the several depots and junctions. The clerks are kept busy until they reached Chicaso. Letters are always dealt with be-started.

At 12:48 a. m. on Saturday the train reached Chicago. Letters are always dealt with before the newspapers get their turn. So the door of the first car was unlocked at once and by the aid of three porters (Nos. 22-24) the pouches were passed on to another man (No. 25), who placed them inside the mail wagon. The new pouch was among them. When the wagon was filled the driver (No. 26) locked it cisco newspapers criticising Peter Jackson in proper condition on the day set for the fight, May 21, it will make matters all the easier for Corbett. Of course the latter alleges that he fears a postnt will be ordered, and he wishes the all well enough, but if he has any knowledge secure a postponement Corbett could have the attention of the directors of the Califor-nia Club called to the fact quietly without rushing into print, and if he is assured Peter will not be in time to fight he could let will not be in time to fight he could let up some in his training, so as not to become stale in the event of a postponement. The young Californian also alieges that he wants Jackson to be in good condition, so that the fight will decide beyond question which is the better man. This is all very commendable in Mr. Corbett, but when he rushes into print with these matters, as he has done, it is calculated to make people believe he is seeking cheap notoriety and is doing more fighting now with his mouth than he will do with his fists when he gets into the ring with the black Australian who is never given to boasting. when he gets into the ring with the black Australian who is never given to boasting. Mr. Corbett will probably find on the evening of the fight that Peter is in condition entirely too good to be defeated by him.

The Astoria Club who of Twin City Club. The Astoria Club who offered a purse of $5,000 more for the contest, was asked to guarantee its offer by posting a forfeit of $5,000 and placing the $17,000 in bank. Nothing is said, however, about making shaw guarantee his offer, and if the attendance at the contest does not realize enough to pay the purse there is no guarantee that the men will receive it. The Twin City Club is better known, it is true, but could not be forced to pay the money if it concluded not be forced to pay the money if it concluded not to do so. If one club must guarantee its offer, why should not the other? It seems strange that Mr. Davies and Mr. Clark should guard the interests of their men so zealously with one club and ignore them completely in dealing with a neglector.

By a late Australian steamer there arrived a fighter who has not yet suffered defeat in an igner who has not yet suitered dereat in the ring. His name is Terence Lynch, and he for several years held the championship of South Africa, Tasmania and New Zealand. He has fought a number of good battes in Aus traila. Lynch is six feet tall, weighs now 226 traila. Lynch is six feet tail, weighs now 226 pounds, and fights at about 180. He says he is ready to fight anybody, barring no one. Lynch is a native of Sidney and 27 years old. In 1882 he was champion of South Africa, having defeated Jim Hail in fitteen rounds, for £100 a side; Jim Hanigan, in ten rounds and Owen Carr in six rounds. He went to New Zealand and fought a draw with Barney Donovan, and then defeated Wilkinson in twenty rounds. In a second with Barney Donovan, and then defeated Wilkinson in twenty rounds. In a second fight with Donovan he defeated him in seven rounds. He next defeated a fighter named Brown in five rounds, and was then sent to Australia by Barry Foley to fight Peter Jackson. The latter retired from the ring to go into the hotel business, and the match fell through. Lynch afterward defeated Wells in three rounds, Logan in eleven rounds, Stokes in six rounds and Harrington in seventeen rounds. He also defeated all comers in Tasmania for the championship. He was matched with Harry Lainge and Dick Matthews, but the matches fell through.

BASE BALL.

Cornell has a long, thin first baseman named Taylor, remarks the Louisrille Courier-Journal. He is a brother of Harry and is said to be doing as good work for Cornell as the Louisville player did. Taylor, the Louisville first baseman, spent all last winter coaching first baseman, spent all last winter coaching the Cornell team. He impressed on them those principles of ball playing which won the pennant for Louisville last year. Conse-quently, the boys from Ithaca are putting up a very strong game of ball. They gave several strong professional teams a hard tussle, and whipped college teams right and left. Cornell has been trying for years to break into LEAGUE GAMES. The National League season opened yesterday. At New York the opening was most auspicious. The game was between the Giants and the Bostons, between which two clubs the championship is generally believed to lie. Cappa's Seventh Regiment Band was on hand and the attendance was enormous, 17,835 being the figures posted. The game was a grand one, too. At the end of the eighth inning the score stood a tie, each side having grand one, too. At the end of the eighth inning the score stood a tie, each side having scored two runs. In the ninth inning an error by Long, the Boston shortstop, and a hit by Gore gave New York the lead by one run. Long, after losing the game, lost it, for in the last half of the ninsh inning the New York tecnter-fielder attempted to make a one-hand grand stand catch of Long's fly and giving Boston the game by a score of 4 to 8. Each side scored nine hits and Boston made five errors and New York three. Clarkson and Bennett for Boston and Rusie and Buckley for New York were the batteries. ATHLETICS.

country is something remarkable, and George Goldle, trainer of the N. Y. A. C., while re-cently unburdening himself on the subject, drew attention to the fact that Scotchmen drew attention to the fact that Scotchmen were among the first to introduce and foster a love for athletic exercises. "While the first concerted attention paid to amateur athletics in New York dates back to .1854," said Mr. Goldie, "in the organization of the Caledonian Club, general interest really began only about a dozen or fifteen years ago. The Caledonian Club, down on Spring street, in purpose of perpetuating Scottish games.
Those associated with the organization were ill Scotchmen, and as the club gradually in creased in membership the Caledonian gam were celebrated once a year. This Caledonian games were celebrated once a year. This Caledonian Club was the only athletic club in New York up to 1868. It now has about five hundred members and a house worth $50,000. Then came the New York Athletic Club. which is the oldest of its kind in the United States. It had but a small membership at first, but was well managed from the beginning and caught the growing taste for all kinds of athletic sports, then first beginning to show itself in this country. There was a Scottish-American Club in 1873. Curiously nough nearly all of these early clubs wer enough nearly and of these early clubs were composed of Scotchmen, or the descendants of Scotchmen. Then came the Manhattan Club in 1878, which has grown to a splendid organization of some 2,500 members and which owns property estimated at $800,000. There is another strong club at Berkeley, Besides these the Young Men's Christian Asso-ciation and the other associations encourage athletics among their members. Most of them have some sort of gymnasium and have some of the regular features of physical training. "The New York Athletic Club," continued Mr. Goldie, "had a very small membership to start on, but when we got ready to dedicate our new club-house, in 1885, we had a membership of 2,000, with a waiting list of 700 more. The membership was limited then to 2,000. We now have some 2,600 members. The house cost the club about $500,000, including its furniture, and is probably worth more money to day then it cost. Taking New more money to-day than it cost. Taking New York athletic people altogether, I should say there are about 8,000 to 10,000 persons either taking regular training or interested through membership in the various clubs. The Berkeley is the only club that has a ladies' annex and elady membership. I should say that and a lady membership. I should say that only about 25 per cent of the entire member-ship of all the clubs really take an active

She delights in talking over the events of her past career, and is very proud of the fact that her glorious voice has never been approached, for less equaled, by any contraito of the modern operatic stage. She compares sometimes the salaries paid in the days when she vas a debutante with what singers receive at the present time. She made her debut at La Scala in Milan when she was only 15 and her salary was $16 a month. A few years later sh was engaged to sing in London at $10,000 for the season.

Once she asked Rossini who he considered

'Beethoven,'' was the response. "And what about Mozart?

"He was the god of music ." "He was the god of music."

Madame Albani is now nearly 70 years of age. She is still stout, but the embonpoint that was excessive while she was in the prime of life, and that led to her premature withdrawal from the stage, has rather diminished than increased with the passage of years. She was still in the plenitude of her powers when the pittless mockery of a Parisian audience induced her to give up her operatic career forever. She was singing at the opera in "La Favorita." was singing at the opera in "La Favorita."
When Leonora appeared in the last act in the garb of a monk, the tradition of the part demanded that the robe, being that of a novice, should be white. In this most disadvantage ous costume, with the place where the sing er's waist should have been (but where, alas it was not:) defined by a tightly drawn cord, the very stout lady looked bigger than ever. "O, a miracle!" cried one of the spectators in the stalls. "Behold a flour-bag that can not only walk alone but that sings!" Albani not only walk alone but that sings!" Albani overheard the remark and never again appeared upon the stage, reserving the unimpaired richness of her voice for concerts, in which she was for many years unrivaled.

They were a great race, these queens of song of forty and fitty years ago. The singers of later years lacked many of their grand characteristics. Money and not art has been the idol of those whose reign is only just ending. And with the American girl singers of late, an unpleas ant melody, known in their native land as the swell head, has largely developed itself. A fortunate debut, a series of complimentary articles in the papers, and a good engage-A fortunate debut, a series of complimentary articles in the papers, and a good engagement or two, suffice to make one of these pretty creatures into a second Molibron or a new Jenny Lindin her own conceit. Nor is she satisfied with her own self-appreciation. She desires recognition and applause and homage from all the world.

A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

The American colony in Paris is just now deeply exercised over a very mysterious affair which may be briefly set forth as follows:
Several years ago a very beautiful American girl, related to several of the leading families of the United States, came to Europe and contracted there an unfortunate marriage, which was, however, dissolved after a brief but disastrous matrimonial experience on the part of the wire by the death of the husband. The widow, still young and in the full bloom of her remarkable loveliness, re-turned to her native land, literally in a penfull bloom of her remarkable loveliness, returned to her native land, literally in a penniless condition. Her high-born relations were kind and generons, as is the wont of well-to-do Americans when one of their kinsfolk is in distress, and the poverty-stricken charmer was allowed to want for nothing. Suddenly she disappeared from her American home and surroundings. She makes her appearance in Paris, to all appearance rolling in wealth. Her residence, her furniture, her equipages, her jewels, her tollettes, her entertainments, are all of the most magnificent character. People naturally ask, "Whence comes the money to pay for all this splendor?" The lady herself declares that a distant relative of her late husband died lately, and bequeathed the fortune intended for his kinsman to that gentleman's widow. On the other hand there are slanderous persons who assert that there is a vague shadow of a fast and rich French nobleman fiftting in the background. Opinions, therefore, are divided concerning the American beauty. Some worthy matrons receive her with open arms, go to her entertainments and invite her to their houses, and generally make facers of late, writes J. J. Burke, judge at the track.

Take the case of Lemon, for instance. Here is a selling-plater who was recently sold by his former owner, W. H. Tinkmons, for a paliry $500. He won a race some time ago at Clifton, beating a fair field of selling platers.

After quite a long rest he reappears at Guttenburg in a five furlong race and is well backed by his party. Getting off none too well, he runs up very fast, soon takes second winning easily, and seeing he cannot be which the rail-birds mark him down as a good which the rail-birds mark him down as a good which the rail-birds mark him down as a good which the rail-birds mark him down as a good which the rail-birds mark him down as a good thorse to back next time.

In his next essay at even money he beats insight and others in such hollow style that all the experts say: "How can they beat him?"

Wood to show how quickly the youth of the public school pick up practical mechanics or manual training and what black locks, magnificent as actress and as singer—where are they now? They were all present in the flesh on the lyric boards of Europe a quarter of a century ago, Nilsson, Patti, and Lucca, but where are their successors? They followed after Sontag, and Albani, and Grisi, and Jenny Lind, with only a brief break in the melodious succession, but the race of great Italian singing prima donne is dying out nowadays.

THE GREAT CONTRAITO.

Albani, the great contraito (not to be confounded with that noble artiste and charming woman, Mme. Albani) is the last survivor in the city and after explaining his scheme to Teachers Committee of the School Board to put a floor in a basement room of the school. He then visited a number of prominent men in the city and after explaining his scheme to them succeeded in raising several hundred dollars with which he bought twelve carpentaries "titles"; the same as Prof. Woodward. dollars with which he bought twelve carpenter's ''kits,'' the same as Prof. Woodward uses in the Manual Training School of the Washington University. Six double carpenter benches were built in the basement and a quantity of rough lumber was stored there. Twelve boys ranging from 11 to 16 years of age who had no knowledge whatever of tools,'or of the possibilities in working wood, were selected from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades of the school and made into a class. Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday for four weeks past, these boys have gone to work in the basement of the school house to learn the art of carpentering. Mr. A. T. Berthe, a art of carpentering. Mr. A. T. Berthe, a carpenter who has had thirty years' experience in his business here, volunteered to teach the class the trade. They were taught the names of the tools first, the difference in of a block of wood were next made to teach the boys how to prepare their own plans in a job of carpentry. Some of the drawings were very good. At the exhibition yesterday the boys, some of them so small that they have to stand on benches when at work, showed how completely they had mastered the rip and cross-cut saws in cutting up lumber, and of the jack-plane in finishing belumber. Specimens of planed and squared pieces shown the visitors yesterday would reflect credit on a carpenter of long experience. Besides being taught the use of the tools the boys learn the names of all the parts of each tool, how they are made, how to sharpen and keep them. The class-room is a model of cleanliness and order. Prof. Wood is delighted and is more enthusiastic than ever over his pet scheme. He now thinks that he will find no trouble in introducing a manual training department in ducing a manual training department in lessons in joining, one of the most interest rudiments of the trade, and he says his pupils lessons have been learned. An exhibition of work in more advanced carpentry will be given in a few weeks or at the end of the school term.
